

Terms of Use

Your access to Plant of the Future web site (“PoF Web Site” and/or “website” and/or “web site”) or using any information in the PoF Web Site means that you have accepted the following conditions. Our Company (means to “Türkiye Şişe ve Cam Fabrikaları A.Ş. and its affiliates”) has the right to change and update both the conditions and provisions in this legal notice and all kinds of content, opinion and information in the PoF Web Site without notifying beforehand.

Our web site and its content are prepared generally for informing. No information in the site has an intention of suggesting or conducting. Responsibility of all kinds of decisions taken on the basis of the information in the site belongs to the user himself. Our Company by no means can be held responsible for damages arising/may arise from the information or the operations performed on the basis of information published in this site or from inability to access the site. Within this scope, financial data and product information offered in the web site are intended for informative purposes only and do not have any commercial purpose or intention. Similarly, the Company may include in the web site information it collects from sources it believes reliable; however it does not assure the accuracy and exactness of this information.

Due to these reasons, it is suggested for the users to confirm or get confirmed accuracy of the information before acting based on the information, opinion and contents obtained from this site. Neither the Company, nor the company partners, managers, employees nor other people accept any liability for any damage arising from the use of contents in the web site in any way.

In case you access to other sites by using the links in our web site, terms of use of those sites shall be effective and accuracy of the content of these web sites of which the links are given is not undertaken or guaranteed. It is completely up to the visitors whether to use these links, and no liability is undertaken for any damage arising from accessing or using the relevant sites by using the given links.

All copyrights and/or intellectual property rights of brands, logos, emblems, images, introduction films and similar materials in our web site belong to our Company and are protected within the framework of the Law of Intellectual Property Rights Number 5846 and other laws and regulations. Reproduction, distribution, uploading, printing and publishing those and using for commercial purposes by other ways are subject to written prior consent of our company. In case any breach on property rights of the contents in our web sites is recognized, we kindly request to consult to our Company.

Except job applications, any writing or data, question, comment, suggestion, etc. material which is not personal you convey by any way to this web site shall be considered as not confidential and not registered. All kinds of opinions, graphic art works, inventions, developments, suggestions or concepts (including but not limited with product development, production, advertisement and marketing) you convey or publish become the property of our Company and may be used (included but not limited with production, disclosure, transferring, publishing and announcing) commercially or non-commercially without making any payment to you or any other person. No liability is undertaken in case children under the age of 18 offer information without receiving the consent of their parents or guardians.

Liability is not accepted for damages which may occur in your computer hardware or other properties due to your access to this site, or use this site, or download any information or document including any sound, image and writing or any damage which may be caused by malicious software infecting your computer systems.

The Company reserves the right to restrict, suspend or end your access to this site or any feature of this site or any property or a part of it at any time, without notifying.

Our Company automatically and anonymously collects properties such as the user intensity, sections visited, clicked areas and such during the users’ surf in the web site. These data are used only for determining the rate of following different sections and areas and are not related to personal information of any of the visitor. In cases when the technology named cookie is used in determining how the pages are visited through passing where, statistical data is collected in the same way to determine the rates of following and clicking different areas of the site and it does not have the nature of private application. By this technology, it is intended to enable easy access of the users to the contents of the sections they frequently visit as of the first visit to the site. It is possible to change your cookie adjustments on your computer. However, in this case, there shall be differences in your experience in our PoF Web Site.

You can access the detailed text regarding cookies via the cookie disclosure text.